

I believe the Safehouse benefit was a great success. The entertainment was very inspirational, the food was great, and the fellowship was superb!

What I liked most about it was the fact of the diversity. I mean, ~~you~~ one could really get a glimpse of what heaven must be like. Unity is one thing that shows the love of God. However, unity in diversity actually reveals God's heart.

I also couldn't help but notice those who were just passing by who stopped to see what the celebration was all about, and what would possibly bring different races and classes together. When they found out it was Jesus, some moved on and some stayed; what a great vehicle of witness which I felt was ~~an~~ imperative.
